WHAT IT WILL DO,

Should two trains approach in the same or opposite directions a dangerous proximity, each engineer is slarmed by his whistle blowing and an electric gong ringing in his cab. He immediately stops his train and communicates with the other engineer through telephone, thus saving the lives of his passengers and the property of the railroad company. Should a bridge wash away the same automatic signal is given. With this device there can be no accidents and the present danger of traveling is reduced to a minimum
WHAT IT WILL COST. About $200 per mile to piace on any railroad in the United States and $25 per mile will pay the annual expenses. The Block System now in use costs $5,000 per mile to put down and $1,200 per mile for annual

Mr. Dorsey (Neb.), from the committee on banking and currency, reported back a bill for the issue of circulating notes to national banking associations. Ordered printed and recommitted. Mr. Dalzell (Pa.), from the committee on elections, submitted the report of that com-mittee on the contested case of Smith against Jackson, from the fourth district of West Virginia. Ordered printed and recom-mitted. The minority was granted leave to file minority report. Mr. Brewer (Mich.) introduced a bill for the construction of public buildings by contract. Referred. THE CUSTOMS ADMINISTRATIVE BILL. The House then went into committee of the whole, Mr. Burrows (Mich.) in the chair, on the customs administrative bill.

The bill having been read at length Mr. Mc-Kinley said that bill, as the title indicated, was purely an administrative bill and was not intended to change the rate of duties. The necessity for the simplification of the laws in relation to the collection of the revenues had been first called to the attention of Congress by Secretary Folger. A bill with this purpose in view had been introduced in Congress by Mr. Hewitt of New York and had received the approval of the ways and means committee, and subsequently the Morrison and the Mills tariff bills had contained substantially the provisions of the pending measure.

MR. CARLISLE STATES THE POSITION OF THE DEMOCRATS. Mr. Carlisle (Ky.), while he admitted that the provisions of this bill were substantially the same as those contained in the Morrison and Mills bill, said that gentlemen who agreed with him in his tariff views might not feel themselves in a position to give support to the bill while standing alone. There were certain provisions For the improvement of St. Mary's river and which, while they did not in terms change the rate of duty, would necessarily increase the The restoration of duty on packages and coverings would increase the revenue to the extent of five or six million doilars a year. He regarded as unjust the proposition of the bill which imof the Columbia river was taken up and here in a damaged condition as on goods in a perfect condition.

Mr. Gorman said that while he would not antagonize the bill he would oppose any further specific appropriations until all public whose goods have been damaged may works were considered in the river and harbor bill. And he mentioned in that connection the Mr. Carlisle replied that that meant that some survivors of the government was so liberal to its citizens that it would allow them to give their damaged goods to the Audral made an United States for nothing.

> TO THE BITTER END. Democrats Determined in Opposing the Proposed New House Rules. ANOTHER MEETING TOMORBOW-PROPOSED CAU-CUS OF DEMOCRATIC REPRESENTATIVES TO

The House committee on rules had a meeting of an hour and a half's duration this morning, all the members except Mr. Randall being present. They discussed the various details of the code submitted by Mr. Reed and some merely verbal changes were made, but they did not get over the whole code, and another meeting will be had tomorrow. It is doubtful whether they will finish at tomorrow's meeting even, though they may. this morning by his colleague (Mr. Sawyer)

MR. CARLISLE MAINTAINS HIS OPPOSITION to the principal features of the case and will prepare a strong minority report. The democrats are satisfied that there are no parliamentary tactics by which they can prevent the adoption of Mr. Reed's code provided he gets the united following of his party. Their only reliance is in the aid of individual republicans whose interests will be affected by depriving them of the power will be affected by depriving them of the power to make dilatory motions. There is undoubtedly republican opposition at this time to Mr. Reed's plan, but whether it will stand against party pressure is of course a question. The democrats rather expect that after they have made their protest as strong as they can the report of the majority of the compropose to fight as hard as they can, but not with great hope of success.

IF MR. REED'S BULES ARE ADOPTED the purpose of the democrats is to see that they are strictly adhered to at all times and to regulate all proceedings, with the idea that whatever oppressive features there may be in them shall be felt by the whole House. They do not propose that any concessions shall be granted by unanimous consent. For instance, if the rule restoring the old morning hour is adopted business may be greatly re-tarded by its strict enforcement. Under that rule when a committee reports a measure it is entitled to be taken up at once unless by unanimous consent it is permitted to go over as unfinished business.

It is the custom to consent to measures eing laid aside that others considered more important at the time may be taken up. this is not done each measure will have to be considered as it comes along and members may see the time of the session being consumed while their fa-vorite measures are waiting out in the cold.

If this rule is adopted after their protest against it the democrats propose that it shall be rigidly enforced. HOW A PRO MINENT DEMOCRAT PUTS IT. "We will not permit," said a prominent member of the party to a STAR reporter, "any matter to be laid aside without action by unanimatter to be laid aside without action by unanimous consent. Each measure will have to be considered when it comes up, and it will not take long to convince the House of the evil of the rule. It will be impossible under its strict construction to pass more than ten bills in a week, that is forty in a whole month. There will be no getting rid of great masses of private bills in a single night. When you consider that every member of the majority has at least one bill that it is important for him to have passed you can well see how they will object to having the way blocked before them.

BISMARCK'S BATTLE.

He Threatens Vengeance on the Social Democrats if His Socialist Bill Fails.

Berlin, Jan. 23 .- The consideration of the socialist bill was continued in the reichstag today. After much debate the house adopted the eleventh, thirteenth and twenty-second clauses of the measure. During the discussion Herr Herfurth, minister of the interior, declared that the clause providing for the declaration of a minor state of siege, where and whenever the government deems expedient, was indispensable and urgently necessary. The period of the operation of the measure, he said, should not be restricted. Only a permanent measure would be efficacious. The Berlin correspondent of the London Standard learns that should the socialist bill be defeated Bismarck will give an election watchword, "Down with the social democrats." Em-peror William's message to the new reichstag will probably be of the same tenor as the

HER NAME IS CUSHING. The Herreshoff Torpedo Boat Successfully Launched.

BRISTOL, R. I., Jan. 23.—The United States seagoing torpedo boat No. 1 was successfully launched at 9:45 o'clock this morning from the ship yard of the Herreshoff manufacturing company. A bottle of champagne was broken over her bow and the boat christened "Cushing" by Miss Katha-rine K. Herreshoff, daughter of J. B. Herreshoff, president of the manufacturing company. The fires were started as the vessel left the wharves and smoke was issuing from the stacks as she entered the water. Steam was raised in thirty-two minutes and the auxilliary machin-

Converse, who has had charge of the building of the vessel, and Lient. Winslow, who will command her. The boat will be kept under steam until she is ready for the speed trial by the government

TALLEYRAND'S MEMOIRS. Parisian Gossips Anxious to Have the

Foibles of Dead Men Retold. Paris, Jan. 23.-A curious story comes from the department of Loir-et-Cher, France. It is said that an attempt has been made to steal the memoirs of Talleyrand, deposited at Chatesu Vieux, whose proprietor, M. Paul Audral, has recently died. They were to be published in 1868, thirty years after Talleyrand's death, but Louis Napoleon ordered that the event should t of the duty. be postponed to 1890, to save the feelings some survivors of the stirring times of which

The literati of Paris profess to know that M. Audral made an abridgement of the bulky memoirs embodying all the matter that the gossips would love to read. It was probably this condensation, if it exists, rather than the wagon load of original documents that the too

Further advances of small fractions, however, were followed by a weakening all over the room and a few stocks retired to below their first prices, sugar refineries being most conspicuous.
